Tax Appeals Assistance
Program (TAAP)

What is the Tax Appeals Assistance Program (TAAP)?

The Taxpayers' Rights Advocate (TRA) created TAAP to provide certain taxpayers who have filed tax appeals with the California Department of Tax and Fee Administration (CDTFA) the opportunity to seek free legal advice.

As of July 1, 2017, most duties administered by the Board of Equalization (BOE) with the exception of property taxes, insurance taxes, and excise taxes on alcohol have been transferred to the newly created CDTFA and the Office of Tax Appeals (OTA). The BOE will continue to hear taxpayer appeals until December 31, 2017. Beginning January 1, 2018, the OTA will hear tax appeals on all tax issues handled by TAAP.

What help is available?

If you are sure that your tax bill is wrong and you do not have the resources to hire professional assistance, TAAP might be able to help with your case. TAAP offers free legal assistance to qualifying appellants who have filed an appeal with the CDTFA or disagree with a final decision made by the FTB.

TAAP offers this valuable free service to people who cannot afford to pay for legal or tax help. If your case is accepted, a qualified law student, working under the close supervision of an experienced tax attorney, will help you with your appeal at no cost to you.

How do I qualify?

The most important rule is that the amount you have been billed/informed that you owe, or the amount of refund you are claiming, must be less than $30,000.

Will TAAP protect my privacy?

Your privacy is protected by the attorney/client privilege.

Will TAAP really be able to help me?

The program has been an essential tool in fulfilling the intent of the Taxpayers' Bill of Rights. Since TAAP began in 2006, hundreds of TAAP cases have been resolved.

If not for TAAP, many taxpayers would have to face the tax agency alone, hire representation themselves, or just give up and pay the disputed bill.

What if I'm not happy with TAAP?

You may withdraw your case from TAAP at any time.

Is TAAP limited to handling specific tax issues?
